Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:

A windy start to the day away from the southwest, but winds will ease through the day. It will also be largely dry for many, barring some early rain across northeastern parts of England and Scotland. Many places will see sunny spells through the afternoon, but skies will turn cloudier across the south with rain arriving in the evening.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Thursday will be an unsettled day with many places seeing heavy showers or longer spells of rain. There will also be showers on Friday, but there should be a little more in the way of sunshine too, particularly in the south.
