

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Wednesday 08 Jan 2014

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Early showery outbreaks of rain, which will be falling as snow over northern hills, will gradually clear eastwards through the morning. Then it will turn drier and brighter with isolated showers, but it will also be feeling cooler, especially in the brisk breeze.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

It will be a cold start on Friday with mist or fog patches. Through the morning cloud will increase from the west, with outbreaks of rain pushing east through the day. This will clear overnight, with Saturday being largely dry and sunny for most, but there will be scattered wintry showers in the north.

(C) Crown Copyright 2014. Published by the Met Office.