Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After the swift clearance of any fog, most should see a rather cloudy day develop, although parts of Scotland and northern England should fare better with sunny spells; also likely in southwestern parts of England and Wales. However, perhaps a little light rain may be felt at times over Northern Ireland as well as central, eastern and southeastern Britain.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:

Most areas fine and dry throughout with light winds, but cold and frosty by night. Cloudier and windier weather will begin to encroach from the northwest however, with some rain affecting northwestern Scotland at times, making very slow progress southeastwards.
