Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Mostly dry with some sunny spells through the day, although turning cloudier across England for a time. However, outbreaks of mainly light rain will move across north-western parts through the afternoon, while turning windy in the north. Rain moves southeast overnight to lie over southeast England by morning. Clear spells elsewhere, but breezy with scattered showers for northwest Scotland.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Remaining breezy with locally heavy showers over north and west Scotland on Sunday. A damp start in the southeast, otherwise mainly dry with some sunny spells for most. Mostly dry with sunny spells on Monday, cloudier with showers in the west.
