Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
For many tomorrow is looking like a fine day with the best of the sunshine in the east, where it'll feel warm in the sunshine. A band of heavy and persistent rain will spread across northwestern parts and gradually edge south and eastwards through the day and overnight, easing as it goes.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

The rain will die out over northern England early on Monday with showers across Scotland, some heavy and thunder, and largely fine conditions elsewhere. Tuesday's looking similar with a good deal of fine weather, and perhaps less showers for Scotland. Temperatures will be very warm in the south.
