Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a dry and bright start across many northern areas once fog patches clear. Further south, it will be a wet morning with heavy and persistent rain for many that will gradually move northeastwards. Through the afternoon, the rain will continue to clear east with cooler, brighter and breezy weather following, before heavy showers follow into the west.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

A much drier and brighter day on Tuesday with sunny spells for most. Despite this, it will be cooler and rather breezy, with isolated showers in places. Largely fine across southern parts on Wednesday but wetter and windier further north.
