Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be mostly fine and dry once again tomorrow, with plenty of warm sunshine across England and Wales. In the far northwest though, rain and strengthening winds will spread southeastwards, reaching southern Scotland and Northern Ireland by late afternoon.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Thursday will be warm, dry and sunny in the southeast, but cloudy and feeling cooler across central parts, with outbreaks of rain. The far north will see sunny spells, although rain will arrive in the west later. On Friday, rain and strong winds across Scotland and Northern Ireland will spread southeastwards through the day to all but the extreme southeast.
