Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A mainly dry but rather cloudy day for most with any early fog gradually clearing. There could be a few breaks in the cloud, allowing a little brightness, especially through the afternoon. Winds will increase in the northwest through the day, with some patchy rain for northwest Scotland later.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
Patchy rain will edge southwards across Scotland and Northern Ireland on Tuesday, remaining largely dry and cloudy in southern areas. The rain will then move across England and Wales on Wednesday. Colder and brighter weather will then follow from the north.
