++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Mist and fog patches, especially in eastern England and southwest England, should burn back to coasts leaving another dry, sunny and hot day for the vast majority. Rain will develop in northern England, southern and later eastern Scotland, but it will be brighter further northwest. Isolated thundery showers may develop in north Wales and the northwest of England later.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

Further warm sunshine on Friday, but some showers may develop in places, mainly in southeast England. Starting to feel fresher in the west, but still very warm and humid in southeast England. Much cooler everywhere thereafter with sunny spells and showers.
