Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Dry for much of the UK with sunny spells and scattered cloud, barring a few showers for eastern Scotland. However, rain, heavy at times, will arrive in Northern Ireland and the far west of Scotland during the afternoon, accompanied by strengthening southerly winds. A generally warm day, however temperatures suppressed by the rain in Northern Ireland.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Many western areas will be wet and windy on Thursday, although becoming drier in Northern Ireland. Warm and sunny for southeast England. Windy with showers for northwestern parts on Friday, as occasional rain affects central and eastern England. Temperatures generally slightly above normal.
