++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
A cold, bright start with a frost in places and also some icy patches. There will be plenty of sunshine during the day, but it will turn cloudier in the west later. A spell of wet, windy and milder weather will spread eastwards through the evening and overnight.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

A cloudy, wet start to Monday with the rain clearing southeastwards through the day, but lingering across the south overnight. Tuesday will be brighter with sunny spells, but there will be frequent, blustery showers in the northwest, some heavy with a risk of thunder and hail.
