Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It'll be a largely dry start to the day across the country but rather misty and murky. There will however be rain across Northern Ireland which will push eastwards through the day giving some heavy and prolonged outbreaks across the country. The best of the dry and bright weather will be across the far north of Scotland.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
It will remain unsettled to end the week, with a further band of rain pushing in from the west on Friday and also feeling breezy. Into Saturday it'll remain windy with heavy showers across the north and more scattered showers in the south.
