Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Mainly dry but cloudy, with many areas seeing a little light rain and drizzle, particularly the northwest of the UK. Otherwise it should become drier later for most, with some sunny spells developing, mainly in central and eastern areas. In spite of any sunshine it will feel rather chilly, particularly in the east.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Rather cloudy on Sunday, with some bright or sunny intervals but also with some light rain or drizzle. More persistent rain should spread from the northwest later. Monday will then be generally wet and windy, particularly in the exposed west.
