++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Showers or longer spells of rain will continue in Northern Ireland and northern and western Scotland for much of the day. Elsewhere, mostly fine and dry with some sunny intervals, but rain also possible at times in western England and Wales, though mainly light. Staying very warm in the southeast, but cooler elsewhere.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:

Many places seeing rain or showers at times on Monday, this most persistent in southeastern parts of England. On Tuesday, a dry start for most but strengthening winds and sometimes heavy rain will move into southwestern areas during the morning, spreading northeastwards through the day.
