Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Winds will be much lighter than on recent days. Heavy rain at first in the southeast will spread north through the morning. This will likely turn to snow in parts of the north, this mainly on the hills. It will be brighter and showery in the southwest.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
A bright but chilly start on Sunday with a touch of frost in some places. It will quickly turn wet and windy from the southwest, this rain clearing to the east overnight. Monday will be windy with showers, some heavy, with gales in exposed areas.
