Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Tomorrow will be mild again with a lot of cloud. The rain in the north-west will turn heavy at times as it moves south-eastwards and the winds will strengthen. However it will move rather slowly so the Midlands, the south of England and south Wales will stay dry with sunny periods. The far south east will stay cloudy and dry.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

That rain will work its way slowly southwards so the Midlands and the south of England will have a rather wet Saturday morning. It'll be brighter in the north with some showers and that brightness will spread further south later.
