++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a chilly start, most places will become dry and sunny through the day, with showers easing and any fog patches clearing. However, it will be cloudier in the east with scattered showers, locally heavy and thundery in the southeast.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

Cold start to Thursday with fog patches slowly clearing. Turning wet and windy across western areas through the morning, and this wind and rain will push countrywide through the day. On Friday, rain across central and northern parts will gradually clear to the northeast, although it may linger in the far north.
Elsewhere, sunny spells and showers and remaining windy.
