

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Friday 25 Apr 2014

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
A cloudy start in eastern and central parts with outbreaks of rain spreading northwards, this heavy and perhaps thundery at times. Some brighter spells are likely further west but rain and strengthening winds will arrive into the southwest during late evening, then spread northeastwards overnight to reach central and southeastern parts by dawn, with scattered showers following.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
Rain or showers in many places through the weekend with some heavy bursts possible at times. There will however also be some drier, sunnier interludes. It will feel pleasantly warm in any sunshine but colder in rain and near northeastern coasts.
