

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter at 0700 on Friday 02 Aug 2013

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Sunny spells and scattered showers, some of the showers heavy and possibly thundery, especially this afternoon. Still very warm in some southeastern areas.
Cloudier and windier in the far northwest, with outbreaks of rain. Little change overnight, with further showers, mostly in the west, some heavy and thundery.
Rain and strong winds for northwest Scotland.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Another day of sunshine and showers on Saturday, the showers most frequent and heaviest across northern and western areas. Windy with light rain for northwest Scotland. A band of persistent and at times heavy rain will spread from the southwest later on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2013. Published by the Met Office.