Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Saturday will start cloudy with patchy rain across some northern areas. However, it will brighten up during the day. Meanwhile in the south patchy fog and frost will lift to leave plenty of sunshine during the morning, before cloud bubbles up turning that sunshine more hazy later. Feeling pleasantly warm in light winds.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
High pressure will dominate the weather across most of the British Isles on Sunday and Monday. This will bring generally dry and settled conditions with some warm sunshine by day, and patchy fog and frost overnight. However, the far northwest will be breezy with patchy rain.
