++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After any early mist and fog clears it will be largely fine and bright across many areas tomorrow with plenty of sunshine and feeling warm. However, across Northern Ireland there will be a band of heavy rain which may cause some surface water issues. This will start to push into Wales and the southwest by evening.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
This band of rain will push northeastwards through the day on Saturday bringing showery rain to most parts, which may give some heavy bursts at times. Sunday will be slightly drier but still with showery outbreaks. Both days will feel cooler than of late.
