Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Most places will be cloudy and cool but dry tomorrow. Patchy rain will affect parts of Anglia, heavy in places, and light, drizzly rain will push south through Scotland and into Northern Ireland later. Cloud will tend to break up to the south of high ground, giving a few brighter or sunny spells. Eastern parts will stay breezy.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Patchy rain will soon clear southern England early on Saturday, leaving a dry day with sunny spells. Lighter winds will make it feel warmer than of late. After a chilly night, Sunday should also be dry, though with larger amounts of cloud.
