Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a largely dry start across many central and eastern areas, cloud will steadily increase to bring an increasing risk of showers through the day. Some of these will be heavy with the risk of hail and thunder in places. There will be some sunshine between the showers but it will be a cool day for most.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
A drier day to come on Sunday for many areas with spells of sunshine but cloud will increase as rain spreads into western areas. This will clear most parts overnight to leave sunshine and showers through Monday and staying rather cool.
