++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Predominantly cloudy and breezy across England and Wales, with occasional light rain or drizzle across central and northeastern parts. Mainly fine and dry across Northern Ireland and Scotland, and generally bright on the western side of both Wales and England. Frost and fog across parts of Scotland and Northern Ireland tonight, otherwise little change.

Outlook for Monday and Tuesday:
Overcast and damp in the north and west of both Scotland and Northern Ireland on Monday, and similar across central and eastern England on both days. Otherwise mainly dry and bright, albeit foggy at times across parts of Scotland and Northern Ireland.
