Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Windy with blustery showers across Scotland, these mainly in the west, and also affecting Northern Ireland and northwest England later. Elsewhere, a bright but fairly cloudy start before a weakening band of rain moves southeastwards, with brighter and drier conditions following on behind.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:
Generally drier and brighter on Thursday, with lighter winds and plenty of sunny spells, especially during the morning. The exception being western Scotland, where it will be windier with a few showers, and perhaps cloudier across Northern Ireland too. Friday should be similar, but generally more cloud and a chance of rain in northern and western areas.
