++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It'll be a frosty start for most with some brightness which will persist in the east through the day, although there'll be showers along the east coast. Rain will move in from the west, turning to snow on high ground in the north, and that rain will track eastwards tonight with snow possible to lower levels in places.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:

The rain and snow will slowly clear tomorrow. Brighter conditions with showers will follow from the west and it will be windy in the south, with coastal gales. The showers will then be heavy at times on Thursday, with some sunshine.
