++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Cloudy, wet and very windy conditions will affect much of Scotland today, with damp and very windy weather over northern England, N.Ireland and eastern Scotland at times. Elsewhere will be largely dry and mild with sunny spells, but rather breezy. Scotland should gradually become drier and less windy overnight though.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
Cloudy, wet and windy weather will move east across northern parts on Saturday, with drier weather following later. Otherwise it will be rather cloudy but mainly dry and breezy, with some sunny intervals. Rather cloudy but mainly dry on Sunday too, with some sunny intervals, especially in the east. Mild.
