Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
It will be a cloudy, mild and increasingly breezy day for most, with patchy drizzle on western coasts and hills, and with the best of any brighter spells in the east and northeast. Northwest Scotland will be windy with coastal gales, and with some outbreaks of locally heavy rain through the afternoon.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Christmas Eve will be cloudy, mild and windy, with some persistent rain in western Scotland and Northern Ireland. On Christmas day, rain will move slowly southeastwards, but not reaching the far southeast until evening. Brighter, showery weather follows into Northern Ireland and northern Scotland in the afternoon.
