

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Wednesday 07 Mar 2012

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a generally chilly start it will be a dry, mild, bright and breezy day for most, with cloud amounts increasing from the west later on. In northwestern UK however, any remaining wintry showers will soon be replaced by occasional rain. This rain will signal the arrival of milder conditions, although the brisk wind will temper these somewhat.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

Strong winds and occasional rain in northwestern areas will ease on Friday, leaving most parts dry but rather cloudy by the weekend, with eastern areas seeing the best brightness. It will be mild and frost-free for the vast majority throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2012. Published by the Met Office.