Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:

A windy start for much of England and Wales, especially northern England with a risk of gales here. There will also be spells of rain or showers for most during the day, with persistent rain for Scotland at first. It should, however, stay mostly dry in southeast England, with winds easing elsewhere during the day.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Mainly dry and sunny for most of England and Wales during Saturday, perhaps with the odd shower, but further cloud and rain from the Pennines northwards. More cloud and spells of rain on Sunday, but staying drier, brighter and warmer in southern and eastern England.
