

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Saturday 05 Aug 2017

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Saturday will see a mixture of sunshine and showers across the United Kingdom. Some heavy showers, with hail and thunder will spread east across Wales and central parts during the morning, before moving into parts of East Anglia and the southeast during the afternoon. Breezy in the southwest. It'll be mostly dry, clear and cool overnight.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
After a cool start on Sunday, most places will be dry with sunny spells. However, cloud and rain will arrive into western parts during the day. Cloud and rain will spread southeastwards on Monday, with sunshine and showers following. Cool and breezy for most.

(C) Crown Copyright 2017. Published by the Met Office.