Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It'll be a chilly start for many with plenty of bright or sunny spells through the day. Showers will affect eastern parts especially, with the risk of hail and thunder, and it'll feel cool here in the easterly breeze. The showers will continue in the east tonight but it'll stay dry for many, with patchy fog and frost likely.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
Further showers will affect the east tomorrow and these will move inland through the day. Many will see a bright day but the winds will strengthen in the southwest. Showers will continue in the east on Wednesday, with sunshine further west.
