Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a dry and bright start for many, showers are expected to develop through the morning, although with sunny spells too and staying drier across Scotland. Showers will be dying away from western areas though later in the afternoon. More general cloud and rain will be edging in across northern and western Scotland through the afternoon.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:
Cloud and rain across Scotland and Northern Ireland at first will be edging southwards through Tuesday into northern England and will become slow moving on Wednesday across a large part of England and Wales with some locally heavy downpours possible before clearing away.
