++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
After a chilly start in the north, it'll be a fine day for many with most places dry. A few showers are possible in the north, before some rain spreads across the northwest later. It should be less breezy than of late and will feel warm in the sunny spells. Overnight some rain will spread across the north.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:

The rain should become mostly confined to the breezy northwest on Friday, though it will stay rather cloudy across the north. Further south it will be dry with warm sunshine. Saturday should see rain in the north but drier further south.
