Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
It will be cloudy for most of England and Wales on Tuesday with rain or showers that may turn heavy and thundery, especially across southeastern areas. Drier and brighter elsewhere with only scattered showers but with a cool feel for most. This rain will continue overnight and it will turn rather windy for all.

Outlook for Wednesday and Thursday:
After a wet start for many, drier and brighter conditions will spread across most areas on Wednesday although further heavy rain will continue across South East England and East Anglia. This will continue to clear on Thursday to leave most parts dry, bright but still breezy.
