++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
A band of patchy cloud and rain, locally heavy, will move northeastward, reaching the Northern Isles by late afternoon. Clearer conditions will follow on a freshening southwesterly wind. A mixture of sunshine and showers for the afternoon. Feeling cool overnight with showers, a few heavy, becoming mostly confined to the west. A dry night elsewhere.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

A dry and bright morning for most with a few showers mostly in the west. Cloud and rain, locally heavy, moving across the UK later with a strengthening wind. An unsettled end to the weekend with bands of rain and strong westerly winds on Sunday.
