Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Any early mist or fog patches in western Britain will quickly clear after dawn. This will leave a dry, mainly sunny and very warm day in most places, with light winds. Strong winds and outbreaks of rain across northwestern Scotland should ease through the day too giving drier and brighter weather by the evening.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
There will generally be a good deal of fine, dry and increasingly warm weather throughout the weekend, with plenty of sunshine. However, northwestern parts of Britain may be cloudy at times with outbreaks of light rain or drizzle, especially during Saturday.
