++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Rain will linger over many parts of Scotland, heaviest in the west. Elsewhere: mostly cloudy, mild with patchy drizzle in places but also a few brighter spells developing in the south and east. It will be on the mild side for February with temperatures of 11 to 13C quite widely.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
Northwest Britain will continue to be rather damp at times, but elsewhere it should be mostly fine and dry but often fairly cloudy. The best of the brightness will be in the south and east but there could also be some patchy frost and fog by night.
