Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Mostly dry today with light winds and plenty of warm sunshine. Low cloud and fog across eastern England will become confined to the coast. Meanwhile it will be cloudy across the far north and west of Scotland. Remaining dry overnight with clear periods, giving frost in the north. Cloud lingering in the far northwest, and developing in the south later.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
More warm sunshine is expected tomorrow, although cloud will increase allowing showers to develop in the west, and it will turn breezy. A band of rain clears southeastwards on Saturday, leaving fresher weather with sunshine and showers in the north.
