Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a chilly start to the day for many, there will be some warm sunny spells for most. However, cloud will increase from the south through the morning with some heavy thundery showers possible, especially by late afternoon. It should stay mostly dry in the north, although a few showers may reach northern England late in the afternoon.

Outlook for Friday and Saturday:
Scattered showers across the south on Friday will move north through the day, turning heavy at times, possibly with thunder and hail across central and northern parts. Sunshine and showers will affect the UK again on Saturday, with some warm sunny spells.
