

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Friday 07 Dec 2012

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
England and Wales will have a cold but bright start to the day. Scotland and Northern Ireland will be cloudier with outbreaks of rain spreading from the northwest, with some snow on Scottish hills. Cloud and rain will spread into northern and central England and Wales from late morning onwards, but southern counties should stay dry throughout.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Cloud and patchy rain will move south on Sunday, with northern areas becoming brighter, but staying windy with a few wintry showers. By Monday, most areas will be dry and bright, but will feel colder with wintry showers in northern and eastern counties.

(C) Crown Copyright 2012. Published by the Met Office.