Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
After a chilly start in the north, tomorrow will be largely fine with variable amounts of cloud and sunny spells. Whilst there will be a few showers around, these mainly across Scotland, many areas will miss them and stay dry.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Many areas will be fine, albeit increasingly humid, on Saturday with warm or very warm sunshine. However, it'll become cloudier and windier in the west with some rain, especially in the northwest later. Sunday will be unseasonably windy in the north with gales and showers. Further south, a band of cloud and patchy rain will gradually clear to warm sunshine.
