

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Saturday 03 Dec 2016

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Many places will be dry today. It'll be cloudy for most this morning but by the afternoon there will be some sunshine. Scattered showers will linger in the west and southwest though and it'll be breezy in the southwest. The north will be cloudiest tonight but many places will be frosty away from the southwest, with fog in the northeast.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Sunday will start frosty for many. It'll be a fine and dry day though, with plenty of long sunny spells, but it will be windy in the southwest. It will then turn cloudy and damp from the west on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2016. Published by the Met Office.