Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Persistent rain will clear southeastern England to leave a rather cloudy start with further light rain in places. Through the day, any rain should ease to leave a mainly dry afternoon with increasing amounts of bright or sunny spells developing, particularly inland. It will be breezy but it should feel pleasantly warm in the sunshine.

Outlook for Thursday and Friday:

It will stay breezy on Thursday with a rainband affecting northern areas for a time, but it should stay largely dry across the south. By Friday, away from the far northwest, it will be dry and sunny, and with light winds, very warm in places.
