

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0700 on Friday 04 Jul 2008

++ Valid for broadcast at 0858

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom until dawn tomorrow:
Scattered heavy showers across Scotland, although the Northern Isles will have rain. Generally bright with isolated showers elsewhere, until rain spreads across southwest England and south Wales this afternoon. Overnight bands of rain will move northeastwards, although much of Scotland will become dry as the showers die away. Becoming windy with localised gales across southwest England and south Wales.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:
Generally wet and windy across southwest England and south Wales, with gales along exposed coasts. Northern Scotland, and later eastern England, mostly dry. Otherwise showers or longer spells of rain, and rather cool, for both Saturday and Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2008. Published by the Met Office.