++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Outbreaks of rain with occasional heavy bursts and brisk southerly winds. Hill fog becoming widespread, with patches of coastal fog, especially in the southwest. Northern Scotland will remain largely dry with some brightness. The rain will become more showery into the afternoon, with some heavy downpours possible at times.

Outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday:

Further rain through much of the day on Tuesday, with some moderate to heavy bursts. Another breezy day with widespread hill fog. A better chance of a few brighter spells on Wednesday, but also a scattering of showers, some of which could be heavy and thundery. Still breezy for many.
