

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Thursday 01 Feb 2007

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Cloudy, damp conditions across much of England and Wales initially will mostly clear southeastwards, although it is likely to stay rather cloudy near the south coast. Dry conditions in the northwest with sunny spells and light winds will then spread across most parts giving a largely fine day, but feeling a touch cooler than of late.

Outlook for Saturday and Sunday:

Saturday will be dry with sunny spells generally, although northern Scotland may become cloudy and wet later. Largely fine in the south on Sunday, but northern parts will be cloudy with some rain. Temperatures around normal with light winds. Overnight frosts will be widespread.

(C) Crown Copyright 2007. Published by the Met Office.