

Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1945 on Friday 10 Jan 2014

++ Valid for broadcast at 2159

Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Patchy rain will soon clear the far southeast of England leaving much of the UK with a dry, sunny but cold start to the day. The fine weather will continue for most areas with plenty of sunshine and light winds. Wintry showers will, however, affect parts of Scotland although these will tend to ease later.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
After a frosty and foggy start for many areas on Sunday, it will be generally dry before cloud, rain and strengthening winds affect western areas through the afternoon. Rain will clear the east on Monday morning with sunny spells and showers following from the west.

(C) Crown Copyright 2014. Published by the Met Office.