Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Cloud and outbreaks of rain in the north and west will continue spreading east to reach southeast England in the afternoon. The rain will be locally heavy but will clear southwards from much of Scotland in the late afternoon and evening.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:

Wet and windy conditions over much of England and Wales early on Sunday will gradually clear away eastwards. The north will be much drier and brighter, although with showers over northern Scotland. A dry, bright start for much of the U.K. on Monday before further rain pushes east later.
