Here is the forecast for the United Kingdom for daytime tomorrow:
Cloud and outbreaks of drizzly rain will affect many central and southern parts of England and Wales at first, before this gradually spreads northwards. Elsewhere, some warm sunshine will develop across central and southwest England and Wales, as well as northern Scotland. Rain and strengthening winds will spread into the northwest into the evening.

Outlook for Sunday and Monday:
Sunday and Monday will see a west/east split in the weather. The west will be cloudy with sporadic outbreaks of rain, perhaps heavy in places. Eastern parts are likely to stay drier with sunny spells. Winds will be light and it will feel warm.
